Thom Morecroft's new live single 'The Beast' is unafraid to show the scars.

Liverpool, UK — Thom Morecroft's new 7 inch single 'The Beast' has already been described by writer Paul Du Noyer (NME, Q, Mojo, Word) as "that killer finale". Recorded live at Studio2, Parr Street, it captures the Shrewsbury-born singer-songwriter closing the launch of his latest album in his hometown of Liverpool.

Following the release of the rich and layered 'Feng Shui and the Sushi' album, 'The Beast' brings everything back home to an acoustic guitar, the raw voice and a captive audience. A personal story of family alcoholism and mistaken identity, it captures a young artist at his most direct and vulnerable; giving just a little too much away.

After a UK album tour cut short (and the thrill of a huddled audience for many a distant memory) Thom wanted to reach out with a song that could only really be heard live.

Available on 7" Vinyl and across all digital platforms. For more information, promo requests, or to arrange an interview, get in touch via details at the top.
